

Our web based seminars represent an efficient way for you and your team to develop practical knowledge, delivering expert advice and guidance to you when and where you choose. Simple webinars offer a low cost and time efficient training option. The online seminars and video library can be accessed from the internet, eliminating the need to take time out of the office and avoid expensive travel costs.

Public Internet Training

Monthly technical seminars lasting 90mins with the opportunity to ask questions during or at the end of the session. The events are scheduled on different manufacturing topics of interest to engineers and production staff working in printed circuit board assembly. Click here for a list of topics

The cost is £65 plus VAT

Company Internet Training

Company training seminars are provided in the same way as our regular monthly seminars but you can organise an event at a time and day that is convenient to you and your team. These are normally split into two in depth sessions each lasting 90mins with a question and answer session

The cost is £300 plus VAT

On Line Video Library

Over 25 videos covering all aspects of printed board assembly. The videos last between approx. 20–60mins and can be viewed online whenever you want 24/7. The video library is available as a 6 month subscription service for a one off company site payment. Videos are only available in English. A full list of our training products available to purchase Click here

To view a sample of our popular training videos Contact us by email

Six month subscription to the library is £150 plus VAT

Customised Internet Training

Through our experience in many areas of manufacture we are able to provide customised web training presentations which can be presented to groups of your staff in your own conference room at a date and time of your choice. The training can be modified from any of our existing sessions or ask about specific topics that you would like covered

Email us your requirements

On Line Sales Presentations

Suppliers often need to present technical on line seminars on a wide range of topics to existing and potential customers. There is also a requirement to give technical presentations for sales staff and distributors worldwide. We offer to organise the presentations on line for you, all you need to do is present your material and we co-ordinate the rest.